

John Stanzi
Chief Strategy Officer
Joined SIAA in 2023

As SIAA's Chief Strategy Officer and a member of the Executive Leadership Team, John Stanzi is responsible for developing and implementing strategic initiatives designed to benefit and strengthen the entire SIAA ecosystem. These initiatives span across operations, growth initiatives, utilization of data, and partnering with agency principals to drive effective integrations. John is also leading SIAA's adoption of the OKR System (Objectives and Key Results) across its business units.

John has a proven track record of executing on organic and acquisition growth platforms in the insurance industry. This experience includes capitalizing on growth investments from private equity sources to expand the products and services we provide to our agency and carrier partners. He takes pride in supporting members' growth objectives and instituting a culture of collaboration and accountability.

John has held several leadership positions throughout his career in the insurance space. Prior to joining SIAA, John was Managing Principal at Epic/Integro insurance brokers. At Epic/Integro, John was responsible for the Risk Management division, which wrote over $1B in premium across multiple lines. His unit also delivered effective captive, program, and risk retention strategies on behalf of its clients. John has deep expertise in workers' compensation, having served as President of the Diagnostics Division at One Call Care Management and President of Sedgwick's Casualty division.

John has a BS in Accountancy from the University of Illinois. He completed the Kellogg Management Leadership Program, a curriculum designed for corporate development executives. John lives in the Chicagoland area with his wife, daughter, and son. He has a passion for the outdoors and in his free time John enjoys coaching youth sports, spending time with family and friends, and volunteering.
