

Meghan Leary

Senior Vice President, Strategic Partner Relationships

Meghan Leary is Senior Vice President of Strategic Partner Relationships at SIAA, where she leads the development and management of the organization's strategic partner portfolio. In this role, she is responsible for strengthening relationships with carrier and wholesale partners, driving alignment with SIAA's distribution strategy, and delivering programs that support growth across the alliance.

With deep expertise in partnership development and the insurance distribution landscape, Meghan plays a key role in advancing SIAA's position as a proven distribution partner. She works closely with internal leadership, master agencies, and strategic partners to identify opportunities, enhance market access, and create mutually beneficial growth strategies.

Meghan is also a founding member of WISE (Women in Specialty & Excess), a network dedicated to empowering and connecting women across the specialty insurance industry.

Based in the Greater Boston area, Meghan is known for her collaborative leadership style, strong industry relationships, and commitment to delivering meaningful value to SIAA partners and members alike.
